thereto, approved June 14, 1852 and March 4, 1833, there will be offered at gathle sale, at the Court House, in the surrogate. Mr. Jagger hoked at the dog with the solemn eye of a surrogate, and shook his head as only a surrogate can shake it.

"Are you one of the witnesses?" inquired he of the dog's master.

"I am, sir," replied Mr. Rayeley. "I was subpoensed to testify, and here's the document." As he spoke, he had upon the table a paper which, from having been several days in that gentleman's pocket, had faded from white into a souff color, and was particularly crumbled,

"What's that animal doing here?" deman-

"What's that animal doing here?" ded the surrogate,
"He hasn't had time to do anything," replied Mr. Rawley. "He comes when I comes. He goes when I goes. He's a pee-

'The animal must leave the court. It's con-tempt of court to bring him here," said Mr. Jag-ger, angrily. "Remove him instantly."

Mr. Rawiev had frequently been in attend-ance at the police courts, and once or twice had had a slight taste of the sessions; so that he was not as much struck with the surrogate as he otherwise might have been, and he re-plied.

plied:

"I make no opposition, sir, and shall not move a finger to prevent it. There's the animal, and any officer as pleases may remove him. I say nuffin ag'in it. I knows what contempt of court'is and that ain't one." And Mr. Rawley threw himself amiably back in his chair.

Mr. Rawley threw himself amiably back in his chair.

"Mr. Slagg," said the surrogate to the man with a frizzled wig, "remove the dog."

Mr. Slagg laid down his pen, took his spectacles, went up to the dog, and told him to get out; to which Bitters replied by snapping at his fingers, as he attempted to touch him. Mr. Rawley was staring abstractedly out of the window. The dog looked up at him for instructions, and, receiving none, supposing structions, and, receiving none, supposing that snapping at a scrivener's fingers was perfectly correct, resumed his pleasant expression towards the functionary, occasional pression towards the functionary, occasionally casting a lowering eye at the surrogate, as if deliberating whether to include him in his demonstrations of anger.

"Slagg, have you removed the dog?" said Mr, Jagger, who, the dog being under his very nose, saw that he had not.

"No, sir. He resists the court," replied Mr. Slagg.

Mr. Slagg. "Call Walker to assist you," said Mr. Jag.

"Call Walker to assist you," said Mr. Jagger, sternly.

Walker, a small man in drabs, had anticipated something of the kind, and had accidentally with drawn as soon as he saw that there was a prospect of difficulty; so that the whole court was set at defiance by the dog. "Witness," said Mr. Jagger, "Sir," exclaimed a thin man in the corner—who had been subpoenaed, to his own great terror, and who at that perticular moment had an idea that he was the only witness in the world—starting to his feet under the vague impression that he was to be sworn on the spot; and thoroughly convinced that testifying and committing perjury were only different names for the same.

"Not you—the man with the dog."

Mr. Rawley looked the court full in the face.

"Will you oblige the court by removing that animal?" said Mr. Jagger, Mildly. "Certainly, sir," said Mr. Rawley. "Bitters, go home." Bitters rose stiffly and went out, first cast up a glance at the man with the wig, for the purpose of being able to identify him on some future occasion; and, having comforted himself by a violent onslaught upon comforted himself by a violent onslaught upon a small dog belonging to the surrogate, whom he encountered in the entry, was seen from the window walking up the street with the most profound gravity.

GENERAL JACKSON'S LAW OFFICE.—
It may not be generally known among our distant readers that the office in which Gen. Jackson read law in this town is still standing. It is a small frame building, and seems to have been once painted red; but its color at present would be hard to describe. The hand of time is visible upon it. We visited it a few days ago; it stands upon the lot of Nathaniel Boyden, Esq., and in front of his elegant dwelling. A stranger would wonder that it was permitted to remain a decaying and unsightly structure in the midst of taste and elegance; but there are associations connected with it—be it said to the honor of the proprietor—that preserve it from the ruthless hand of progress. Its former tenant, after a career GENERAL JACKSON'S LAW OFFICE. progress. Its former tenant, after a career progress. Its former tenant, after a career among the most brilliant in the annals of history, now moulders in the grave, leaving behind him a name as lasting as time. From this humble, insignificant office he went forth, rising step by step, encircling his brow with fresh laurels, and extending the circle of his fame at every advance, until he at last reached the proudest high, the most honored station in the world. Living he was his country's pride, and dead his memory is shrined in every heart.—Salisbury (N. O.) Hérald.

Por City and Telegraphic News see 3d page. FREMONT AND INDIANA RAILROAD. This road which extends from Frement (upper Sandusky) to Lima, in Allen County, has been advertised to be let to Contra the grading, &c. At Lims this road connects with the road now in course of construction from Dayton to Toledo, and forms by that connection, the shortest route from Cincinnati to Lake Erie. It is also proposed to extend the road to Union, on the Bellefontaine and Indianapolis Road, making important connections at that place with the West and Southwest, and affording the most direct route from that point to Cleveland and the Lake Shore Railroad. At Fremont, the road connects directly, by lines already finished, with Cleveland, Toledo and Sandusky. Subscriptions sufficient to ensure the completion of the road, have, we are informed, already been secured.

GOV. WRIGHT AND INDIANA,-The Whig press is very much disturbed and severely exercised about Gov. Wright's recent visit to Washington. The following, which we clip from the Washington Union of the 2d inst. will throw some light on the subject :

Among the distinguished gentlemen now visiting Washington are Gov. Wright, of Indiana, who is attending to the interest of his State touching her claim to the three per cent. fund; and Col. Gadsden, of South Carolina, lately appointed minister of the United States to Mexico, who is here on business connected with his mission. Hon. Mr. Dunham, of Indiana, Hon. Mr. Dawson, of Pennsylvania, and Hon. Mr. Disney, of Ohio, are also in

We understand that at the suggestion Gov. Wright, Mr. Wilson, the Commission of the General Land Office, will make a full statement of the accounts, as they stand, in relation to the three per cent, fund. Indiana will secure her rights, and that too withou paying fifteen per cent. to an agent.

The Journal of yesterday morning publishes a long list of extracts to show that the Democratic party are divided and distracted. In the same column is the Virginia returns of the late election, showing that thirteen Democrats and not one single Whig has been elected to Congress. The Whig papers may talk of distraction and want of harmony to their hearts content; it will make but little difference, so long as the elections go right.

Henry May, Esq., has been nominated by the Democrats for Congress, in the Baltimore District, Maryland. It is thought he will have no opposition.

Hon. James W. Stone, Democrat, is candidate for re-election in the 4th District, Kentucky. His friends entertain no doubt of his election. His district includes the Salt river

Most of you came here to be restored to health, and when this is accomplished you will return to your family and friends, prepared for the conscientious discharge of your duties to yourselves, your home, and your country. For these, and other reasons, the efficers of the Hospital are glad to see so many of its household present, and hope that each of you will hereafter call to mind this occasion as one worthy to be remembered. occasion as one worthy to be remembered.

Our country was born seventy-seven years ago this day. It was then that the Declaration of Independence, which you have just heard read by our esteemed Superintendent, was passed by an American Congress, and published to the world. Since that day, many miracles of progress have been wrought; many more wonderful changes than were ever before seen, have taken place. Young America, from being small and weak, has become large and strong. From an infant in its cradle, it has become almost lusty enough to Our country was born seventy-seven year dle, it has become almost lusty enough to bear the-world upon its shoulders—ruling the western world, and exerting a mighty influonce over the eastern.

These changes are not alone to be ascribed to the intelligence of our people, but to a very great extent, under God, to the framework of political institutions our fathers gave us-to our theory and system of govern A government more free than was previously known on earth, and yet more strong, because founded in the affections, and solemnized by

No wonder that a government so perfect as ours should be loved by the people who live under it. No wonder that the children of America should wish to celebrate her birth. No wonder that we revere the memories of the noble men of old who gave us these United States to live and be happy in.—What have we gained as the fruits of their toils and their patriotism? Let us compare our beloved country, as it now is, in extent of settlement, in population, in facilities for obtaining wealth and power, in the abundance of the comforts of life, in the morality of the people, in the means of education, in literature and the fine arts, in the various industrial assemble in interval in the various in interval. trial pursuits, in internal improvements, in commerce, in national strength and respectability, with what it was in relation to all of these, seventy-seven years ago. In addition to these all over the State, in every town and township on every railroad and counties the state of the stat ship, on every railroad and canal, in all the manufacturing establishments, on many thousand farms, in every place where man can work, you will find the honest, industrious German, from father-land; and the jolly, but equally industrious son of old Ireland; and Erin 30 Bragh, and the Marseilles Hymn are nearly as popular here as our own Hail

With this increase in population, Indian a country wealthy and powerful. She has twenty-three thousand square miles, and twenty-three million acres of as fertile soil as can be found in the known world. Our citizens, although sadly deficient in capital, have had the will, and have consequently found the way to work wonders. They have organized churches and schools; they have cultivated one hundred thousand farms, on which a bountiful Heaven has smiled. They have subdued and improved more than five million acres of land, and have made them worth one hundred and twenty-nine million dollars. Their live stock is valued at nearly twenty-three million, and the aggregate annual value of their grain crops can hardly be less than forty million dollars. They have less than forty million dollars. They have raised corn by the square mile, and hogs by the acre; they have fattened armies of cattle, and sheared regiments of sheep, and their gold gleaning daughters make annually thirteen million pounds of butter, seven hundred thousand pounds of cheese, and one million seven hundred thousand dollars worth of iome-made goods. We have fed the Eastern States, and to some extent the old world, with the produce of our graineries, and have sold multitudes of mules, and unnumbered horses to our brethren of the South. We have a common school system, and a free school fund, second to that of no other State, and in everything that makes a commo wealth prosperous, Indiana stands this day

BACK AGAIN. - After a short and very pleasant visit to the beautiful city of Dayton. which railroad facilities have made our near neighbor, we are again at our post. While we think our ewn city the most beautiful one in the West, there are several things in which it must yield the palm to Dayton. The streets, particularly, in that city, excel ours. They are as wide as ours, graded and McAdamized, with gutters and sidewalks paved with limestone, and are equal in every respect to the best streets we ever saw anywhere. The Court House, too, is a structure of which every citizen of Dayton is justly proud. It is the most magnificent county building probably in the United States. It is built of limestone, at an expense of $130,-000. Dayton also excels our city in the number of its inhabitants, and of its manufactories; but we think she will not long be able to boast of her superiority over us in either of these respects.

The "Phillips House," at which we stopped while in the city, is a princely building, and one of the best hotels in the country. The landlords are Messrs, Leonard & Porter, who, with their clerks, Messrs. Burnham and Leonard, are gentlemanly and accommodating; the servants attentive; the rooms are high, large, airy, and well furnished; the table is set with all the substantials and delicacies of the season, in characteristic western profusion, and the charge are reasonable. We advise all our readers who may have occasion to visit Dayton, to stop at the Phillips House: they will not regret it.

INQUEST .- A coroner's inquest was held by Justice Sullivan, last Sunday, on the body of a young Irishman, 23 or 24 years old, named Genatty, who died at the house of Timothy Quin and Roger Mullen, near the residence of Samuel Merrill, Esq., about 11 o'clock on Sunday morning. On examination by Dr. Dorsey, the county physician, it was found that his death was occasioned by violencelarge quantity of congealed blood being found between the skin and the skull, on the back of his head, and also a fracture of the skull running obliquely across the head, extending from the crown, towards the right ear, to within one-third of an inch of the base of the skull. Patrick Quin and Roger Mullen and their wives, swore that on Saturday evening, Genuty vame to the house of Quin and Mullen, with whom he had been boarding, considerably intoxicated, went up stairs, and injured himself by falling down to the first floor. Persons living adjoining testified to hearing a noise as of persons quarreling, blows struck, then a sound as a person falling, a woman screaming, "a man is killed," and then two men dragging another, which proved to be Genatty, speechless and insensible, into the yard, and throwing him roughly down, and leaving him there.

The Jury found that the deceased came to his death by injuries inflicted upon him by Pimothy Quin, Patrick Quin, and Roger Mullen. Warrants for their arrest, returnable before Justice Fisher, were issued by Justice Sullivan, and the accused were arrested by officers Stapp, Pilbean, and Johnson, and committed to jail to await an examination before Justice Fisher, which will take place some L'IRE AND WATER-PROOF COMPOSI-FIRE AND WATER-PROOF COMPOSITION ROOFING MATERIAL.—The under signed respectfully be gleave to call the attention of the community to this invaluable material for Roofs. In the Eastern cities at hea almost entirely supe sedes all other kinds of Roo fix; and in this city, although but recently introduced, has in ov. iv instance given the most entire satisfaction—Arrangeants are now cerfected by which the subscribers are enabled to execute all orders for the Roofing Material, either In town or country, at the shortest notice, and on the most favorable terms.

They are economic at in construction, as they affect a considerable saving of side and cross-wall, which goes far towards paying their cost, and are a protection against fare, presenting an incombustible surface to berning bodies falling upon them. Being nearly level, they may be used conveniently for all the purposes of common yards. The daily use of Roofs, to which we can refer sufficiently attests their durability for those purposes. Orders respectful solucited.

We, the undersigned, having used the Composition Roofing Material of Landen & Duffy, very cheerfully recommend its use, believing it to possess all the advantages assirbed to it as a Fire and Water-proof Composition:
